TROUT FISHING ON PUBLIC & PRIVATE LAND

1. LANSING CLEARED CREEK

5.5 mile stream with brown trout.

2. FRENCH WEST BRANCH CREEK

1.4 mile stream with brown trout.

3. PATTERSON CREEK

4.5 mile stream with brown trout.

4. PINE CREEK

1.4 mile stream with brown trout.

5. YELLOW RIVER

3.5 mile stream with brown trout.

6. WEXFORD CREEK

1.5 mile stream with brown trout.

7. WATTERS CREEK

11. CLEAR CREEK

1.4 mile stream with brook & brown trout.

8. TIGHT LINE TROUT GUIDE SERVICES

9. HICKORY CREEK

1.3 mile stream with brook & brown trout.

10. CLEARED CREEK

3.5 mile stream with brook & brown trout.

11. CLEAR CREEK

3.5 mile stream with brook & brown trout.

1. Lansing Clear Creek

Beginning west of town of Lansing, Clear Creek runs south through its grassy valley floor, the scenic area where one can find its brown trout. The stream is accessible to the public, and offers numerous fishing opportunities. The stream is quite popular with local anglers and visitors, and fishing is allowed throughout the year. The stream is managed by the Iowa Department of Natural Resources (IDNR), which regulates fishing practices and provides information to anglers. The stream is also home to a variety of non-game fish species.

2. French West Branch Creek

This 4.5 mile stream with brown trout is located in the northwest quadrant of Iowa. The stream is situated in a beautiful valley, surrounded by picturesque landscapes. The water is clear and cool, providing ideal conditions for fish to thrive. The stream is accessible to the public and offers numerous fishing opportunities. The stream is managed by the IDNR, which regulates fishing practices and provides information to anglers. The stream is also home to a variety of non-game fish species.

3. Patterson Creek

The 4.5 mile stream with brown trout is located in the northwest quadrant of Iowa. The stream is situated in a beautiful valley, surrounded by picturesque landscapes. The water is clear and cool, providing ideal conditions for fish to thrive. The stream is accessible to the public and offers numerous fishing opportunities. The stream is managed by the IDNR, which regulates fishing practices and provides information to anglers. The stream is also home to a variety of non-game fish species.

4. Pine Creek

The 1.4 mile stream with brown trout is located in the northwest quadrant of Iowa. The stream is situated in a beautiful valley, surrounded by picturesque landscapes. The water is clear and cool, providing ideal conditions for fish to thrive. The stream is accessible to the public and offers numerous fishing opportunities. The stream is managed by the IDNR, which regulates fishing practices and provides information to anglers. The stream is also home to a variety of non-game fish species.

5. Yellow River

This 3.5 mile stream with brown trout is located in the northwest quadrant of Iowa. The stream is situated in a beautiful valley, surrounded by picturesque landscapes. The water is clear and cool, providing ideal conditions for fish to thrive. The stream is accessible to the public and offers numerous fishing opportunities. The stream is managed by the IDNR, which regulates fishing practices and provides information to anglers. The stream is also home to a variety of non-game fish species.

6. Wexford Creek

The 1.3 mile stream with brook & brown trout is located in the northwest quadrant of Iowa. The stream is situated in a beautiful valley, surrounded by picturesque landscapes. The water is clear and cool, providing ideal conditions for fish to thrive. The stream is accessible to the public and offers numerous fishing opportunities. The stream is managed by the IDNR, which regulates fishing practices and provides information to anglers. The stream is also home to a variety of non-game fish species.

7. Waters Creek

This 3.5 mile stream with brook & brown trout is located in the northwest quadrant of Iowa. The stream is situated in a beautiful valley, surrounded by picturesque landscapes. The water is clear and cool, providing ideal conditions for fish to thrive. The stream is accessible to the public and offers numerous fishing opportunities. The stream is managed by the IDNR, which regulates fishing practices and provides information to anglers. The stream is also home to a variety of non-game fish species.